

bullfrogfilms®

Green Film Festival: Issues & Dialogue

3rd Thursday, January–June 2011

More info: <http://lakesuperiorstewardship.org>

Location: Atrium & G002 Hesterberg Hall, Michigan Tech Forestry Bldg.

Time: 7:00 – 8:30 pm, movies will be followed by coffee, dessert, and facilitated discussion

Cost: FREE; $3 suggested donation

Credit: teachers may earn 0.6 SB-CEUs for attending four films

- January 20 Tapped - Is access to clean drinking water a basic human right, or a commodity that should be bought and sold? Examines the big business of bottled water. (54 min.) Discussion facilitator: Dr. Alex Mayer, Civil & Environ. Engineering, MTU
- February 17 Weather Report - Takes us to places where global warming is having an immediate effect, to meet people who are early victims of the global crisis that will soon affect us all. (52 min.) Discussion facilitator: Dr. Sarah Green, Dept. of Chemistry, MTU
- March 17 Build Green - A refreshing look at environmentally-smart building materials and practices that better protect against the elements while saving money and resources. (43 min.) Discussion facilitator: Dave Bach, builder
- April 21 Homeland: Four Portraits of Native Action - Inspirational stories of Native American activists that are fighting back against the environmental violations to their homelands. (57 min.) Discussion facilitator: Chuck Brumleve, Environmental Mining Specialist, Keweenaw Bay Indian Community
- May 19 Good Food: Sustainable Food and Farming - Family farmers are making a comeback, growing more and healthier food, using less energy and water than factory food, and most is organic. (57 min.) Discussion facilitator: Karen Rumisek, Keweenaw Food Coop
- June 16 Thirst - Efforts by powerful corporations to commodify the world's water supplies have catalyzed community resistance to globalization in Bolivia, India and the U.S. (62 min.) Discussion facilitator: Ellis Adams, Dept. of Social Sciences, MTU

Cosponsored by Lake Superior Stewardship Initiative, Michigan Tech Center for Water & Society, Keweenaw Unitarian Universalist Fellowship and Keweenaw Land Trust

