

Environment vs. Economy: Is it possible to advance environmental protection AND poverty reduction?

Presenter: Dr. James Boyce
Dept. of Economics,
University of Mass-Amherst

- Explore how to get beyond the common paradigm of environmental protection OR economic growth. How can economic investments enhance natural resource stewardship?
- Examine on-the-ground initiatives across the country and around the world.

Date: Wednesday, Jan. 11

Time: 7:00 - 8:30 pm

Location: G002 Hesterburg
MTU Forestry Building

Presentation followed by coffee, dessert and discussion.

James K. Boyce is director of the Program on Development, Peace-building and the Environment at the Political Economy Research Institute. His books include Reclaiming Nature: Environmental Justice and Ecological Restoration (2007); and The Political Economy of the Environment (2002). His current work focuses on strategies for combining poverty reduction with environmental protection.

Be Green – Bring Your Own Mug!

Cosponsored by Lake Superior Stewardship Initiative,
Michigan Tech Center for Water & Society,
Keweenaw Unitarian Universalist Fellowship, and Keweenaw Land Trust

